Description

Late C19th matched pair of George III style mahogany library armchairs. Of slightly varying proportions, a crisply and identically carved pair of mahogany and pale green leather upholstered armchairs. Serpentine front seats with Vitruvian scroll ('running dog') carving to seat rails. Shell carving to oval 'cameo' backs, with leaf carving to arms and frames. Fluted and carved legs, with carved stop-fluted blocks. The quality mahogany frames have achieved a great rich colour and patination. No rips to hide with good close-nail upholstery and of strong, robust construction with no damage. Well-executed copies of important C18th period mahogany library chairs. England c. 1880
