Description

A very stylish Art Nouveau photograph frame made from English brass standing on it's original easel back stand and retaining it's original bevelled glass to protect your cherished picture. I have placed a piece of white card in the back purely to keep the glass from moving, once your photograph is in you could perhaps place a fresh disc of card in the back to stop the glass from moving. Dating to the late Victorian era, around 1890, the frame is in excellent condition. Spans 6 1/4" wide (max) x 7 1/2" tall (max); the glazed aperture measuring 4" in diameter.
