Description

A very attractive antique 18th Century linen chest in a lovely warm mid honey coloured oak. It has a paneled top along with old (possibly original) hinges and lock. The front has 3 blind carved lozenges and it has a lovely warm patination to the wood. The key is for decoration only. A very useful size for storage, this iconic piece of furniture would grace any room. There is evidence of some old worm holes to the bottom/cross stretchers which have been treated with worm killer as a precaution. At some point in its life its feet have been removed, and replacements added along with supporting brackets. Very solid, it would make an ideal toy box, linen chest or coffee table. Material/Construction: Oak Condition Report: Solid condition. Some old mends to the top and base commensurate with age. Split to one panel on the top small split to front. There is evidence of some old worm holes to the bottom/ bottom cross stretchers which has been treated with worm killer as a precaution.
