Description

A very fine example of a Victorian sterling silver and carved Mother of Pearl fruit knife, complete with its original case. What makes this one stand out from the crowd is the fine foliate and fruit carving on both sides of the handle. The English sterling silver blade is fully hallmarked for Birmingham 1864, together with the highly sought-after Queen Victoria's head duty mark. The makers initials A.T for the silversmith, Alfred Taylor. The knife retains its original silver mount, with the original engraved name "Josephine".
