SoldItem Reference: SA267533*Date of manufacture: 1800

Description

DWERRIHOUSE & OGSTON, LONDON: a truly superb late Regency London-made mahogany LONGCASE CLOCK in remarkable original condition. The CASE is wonderful and totally untouched, with its original set of three gilt brass finials (the centre one larger); fretwork pediment; long "flame" mahogany trunk door with arched top and complicated mouldings; similar plinth and original bracket feet. The 5-pillar MOVEMENT is of 8-day duration, striking hours on a bell, with subsidiary seconds dial on the original painted dial. Just 6ft 7ins high (excluding finials). This clock is remarkably original in every way; finials; brass weights and pendulum bob all retain their identical lacquered colour and finish. Truly delightful. The partnership of Dwerrihouse and Ogston worked in Davies Street, London, from 1835-1842.
