Description

London 1772 solid George III English hallmarked silver helmet shaped cream jug to use when serving tea or coffee, standing on spreading pedestal foot. Although the rest of hallmark is quite clear, the makers mark is partially rubbed, so maker is unknown. This was made 4 years before the US Declaration of Independence! With hand beaten punch bead decorated edges, and foliate decorated repousse body complemented by a graceful shaped handle with leaf embellished thumb piece, and standing on a pedestal foot with matching punch bead edge. Possible sign of very old repair below rim on flat area, which was very well done. Size-4 inches wide with handle by 4 3/8 inches high. 2.5 inch diameter of body. Weight-75 grams. Very good gauge of silver, weight and condition, for the great age of over 250 years old!
