Description

Exceptional in every way, this is truly heirloom quality. Dating to around 1850, one would expect this stunning Papier Mache perfume casket to be signed by the famous Jennens & Bettridge, but there isn't a signature to be found. The box is like a jewel, with a wonderful bright patina and beautifully hand-painted with flowers ; all finished in decorative gilding which is usually very worn, this example does remain very fresh. The interior houses the four original silver topped (unmarked) crystal bottles sitting amongst the original red velvet lining, all in very clean condition and each retaining it's original glass stopper. The box is opened with a push button to the front. An exceptional beauty in excellent condition. The box measures 3 1/4" square x 3 1/2" tall; each bottle measures 1 1/4" square x 3 1/8" tall.
