Description

A quality pair of antique leather tub chairs standing on walnut cabriole legs. Dating to the early 1900's these antique leather upholstered tub chairs are in great condition with a lovely old tan leather. The leather has been treated and nourished with one of the chairs over its lifetime having a little more use with a little cracking and marks to the leather which can be seen in the images. There are no rips or tears and the leather is supple and in very good condition. The tub chairs are always very comfortable because of their shaped backs but these chairs being slightly larger than most so are a very comfortable and relaxing chair to sit in. With shaped cabriole walnut legs and shaped back legs the chairs have a good weight to them and colour which will work in most settings.
