Description

This is a delightful fine quality river landscape oil painting on canvas by the Birmingham artist Robert Mann, who has signed the painting in the lower right hand corner and inscribed it verso on the stretcher 'On the Wnion Nr. Dolgelly'. The painting depicts the River Wnion and Afon Wnion, which is the largest tributary of the Afon Mawddach near Dolgellau, with a few cattle watering on the left side of the river. The Afon Wnion is renowned for sea trout fishing. ABOUT THE ARTIST Robert Mann was born in 1841 in Handsworth, Birmingham, where he lived for the majority of his life. He was one of many Birmingham artists of that era and painted landscapes, primarily in oils, including scenes in Wales like this one. He lived at various addresses in Birmingham with his wife Sarah Isabella and their children, including Soho Hill, Crompton Road, Churchill Road, and Varna Road, Edgbaston. Unfortunately, we haven't as yet, managed to trace the year of his death, but it was after 1911. He exhibited 23 paintings at the Royal Society of Artists in Birmingham between 1869 and 1892. There is one of his paintings in the National Collection and can be viewed at Torre Abbey or on B...
