Description

A good quality small antique Victorian walnut kneehole desk (originally a dressing table) dating from circa 1890. In a lovely aged walnut it has a central drawer and two banks of drawers down either side with drop handles to each drawer. It is of small proportions, ideal for an area where only a shallow desk will fit. The top has been refinished at some point - and there are several holes filled with wax where a mirror would have been as it was originally a dressing table. The top is in useable condition but it would benefit the addition of a leather insert top which would hide the refinished top and holes. This is reflected in the asking price. Construction/Wood: Walnut Condition Report: The top has been refinished at some point - and there are holes filled with wax where a mirror would have been as it was originally a dressing table. Dimensions: Width: 47.5" Height: 30" Depth: 19.5" Kneehole Aperture Width: 18" High: 24"
