Description

Joseph Francis GILBERT*: a beautifully composed and painted OIL ON CANVAS which depicts a classic English rural scene of the village of Seale in Sussex. A young woman and child stroll hand-in-hand down a country lane with the first cottage in the village on the right and the South Downs in the background. The composition is glorious and the treatment of the bushes and trees is particularly well done and inspiring. A really lovely scene. (Some light reflections in the photographs do not appear in reality!) Fully inscribed on the reverse and with applied title to the gilt panel on the front. 24ins x 17ins (61 x 43cms). *John Francis GILBERT (1792-1855) painted landscapes, exhibiting 6 works at the Royal Academy and 13 works at Suffolk Street. He lived in Chichester (West Sussex).
