Description

Rare C19th New Zealand specimen-wood top walnut side or lamp table. A fine and mint-clean example of a Victorian period parquetry-work specimen wood table. Almost certainly the work of the Bohemian emigre cabinet-maker Anton Seuffert, who was re known for his parquetry design furniture made in Auckland using native New Zealand woods. Octagonal top on 4-pillar turned supports onto cruciform base with leaf-carved scroll feet and central finial. The top inlaid with a large selection of exotic wood veneers, including walnut, ebony, rosewood, palm-wood, maple and amboyna. Geometric 'fan' design with star/compass-style centre, the edges with chevron inlay. No damage, losses, repairs or woodworm and good consistent colour. H 29" x W 22". New Zealand c.1870
