Description

A fabulous and very large biscuit box or barrel, hand blown with a polished pontil mark on the underside. The glass is finished with an engraved design to emulate wood grain, the first I have seen with this wonderful decoration. The glass is then engraved to clearly create a proper coopered barrel. The collar and domed hinged lid is silver plated, and is not marked by the makers. A truly wonderful gem in superb, undamaged condition dating to the late Victorian era, around 1890. Superb quality. The base diameter measures 4 1/2"; the widest point having a diameter measuring approximately 6"; standing 7" tall.
