Description

A beautiful mid 18th century Georgian solid oak dresser base. The oak has so much character and warmth, with a beautiful glowing rich colour. The dresser is of joined construction, having four small spice drawers to the top, over three frieze drawers, above two central drawers, the lower being a dummie drawer, flanking this are a pair of shaped and fielded panelled doors, opening to reveal a large storage area. Having ornate pierced brass handles and escutcheons. Standing on stile feet. Even the back of this lovely dresser base is a delight, maintaining the original backboards, which show all the history and character. A wonderful country piece of furniture, with much charm, character and elegance. The condition overall is excellent antique condition, with general expected signs of use consistent with age. The dimensions are. Height-99cm, to top of spice drawers. Height-90cm, to top of sideboard. Width-181cm. Depth-47.5cm. VIEWING.
