Description

George II – Early Georgian Lawrie of Carlisle Oak Longcase Clock. There are 4 possible members of the Lawrie Family who could have made this clock – all working around the same time – 1740 ?. They were all dead by 1773. Upon exploring Brian Loomes, I would suggest that it is most likely to be Archibald Lawrie (II) b.1713, son of Archibald (I) of Edinburgh, apprentice to William Bowie of Canongate, Edinburgh in 1731, before moving to Carlisle c 1740 eventually dying in 1773. He was joined in the family business by his two sons, James & John, who died in the 1760s and 1770 respectively. The 8 Day Twin Weight Striking movement has been Checked and Oiled – In Full Working Condition. Delivery/Set up by discussion Approx Size Dial 11.5 inches Height 81 inches
