Description

A good quality and well proportioned antique pollard oak card table with slight Gothic influence. This antique card table has very good proportions making it look like a side / serving table when closed. Having a fine quality pollard oak top with thumb moulded edge above a pollard oak frieze standing on four ornately carved and turned legs with recessed brass castors. The top turns and opens to reveal and newly baized surface with four dished wells surrounded by a pollard oak boarder. In first class condition this is a extremely handsome and rare piece of furniture that is of good size if being used as a games table and also as a side table. Good antique pollard oak furniture is becoming hard to fine nowadays and items are being sort after by collectors. This table has a lovely mellow colour and with its gothic style will work in any setting.
