Description

A super quality late Regency / William IV mahogany wine table standing on a tripod base. Constructed from the finest cuts of mahogany with a solid mahogany circular dished top supported by a turned and tulip carved column raised on three cabriole shaped legs with pad feet. The top unscrews from its base which is always a sign of quality. This antique wine table has a beautiful mellow faded colour and is in very good condition having been polished using traditional methods. Original antique tables like these are hard to find especially at this height which is the perfect height for a glass of wine whilst seated in a good wing chair!
