Description

Wonderful and very unusual pair of Edwardian period cut glass and solid Sterling silver butter dishes in the form of swans. Very nice cut glass bases with beautifully modeled solid silver swan heads and necks of very good crisp detail. The beautifully shaped pierced design silver wings which are hinged so they open and close over the dish beneath. They are continental in manufacture being marked with what I think is a French silver mark plus .925. They are also marked with the Edwardian British silver import mark. A couple of very minor chips to the glass bases but otherwise these are in very good condition. SIZE; 5" long by 3" wide. The overall height is 4"
