Description

A magnificent and very rare single Mahogany tea caddy intricately inlaid with timbers such as Tulipwood, Boxwood and Ebony stringing to create this grand looking Architectural Georgian house. The top has a single wrought brass finial and the front brass pins to emulate front door furniture and a brass escutcheon. The lid opens to reveal a paper lined interior to the lid and a single lidded compartment, the lid with a brass knob. The underside still retains the original fabric. A highly sought-after piece for the advanced collector in excellent condition, dating to the late Eighteenth Century, c.1780.
