Description

This delightful and rare item is an elegant serving piece from the tea table. Similar in appearance to a preserve spoon (which it would serve as perfectly well), it is a silver ice cream spade. This would have been used for serving ices at high tea and is an unusual and desirable collector's piece. It has a engraved handle and blade with a leaf design and vacant cartouche. This unusual piece is both decorative and usable. P&P contribution :- £7.00 UK £12.00 Worldwide Condition :- Excellent, with no dents or splits. Hallmarks :- Clear and readable. Date :- Sheffield 1902. Maker :- William Batt & Son. Length :- 14 cms.
