Description

Pair of mid C19th English cast-iron garden or terrace vases. Good pair of classical design 'campana' shaped garden urns. Detachable 'egg-and-dart' cast rims onto fluted bodies with gadroon bases onto a spreading foot with a square plinth. Appear to have original black paint finish and have not suffered from any subsequent paint layers, therefore showing good definition of casting. No breaks, cracks or damage, some rusting as to be expected. Would work equally well outdoors or in, excellent hall-way or orangery feature. Probably made in Coalbrookdale, Shropshire. H 20" Dia. 15" Bases 9" sq. England c. 1840
