SoldItem Reference: SA349161*Date of manufacture: 1750

Description

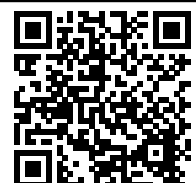

A good 18th century Chippendale period two-tier solid mahogany DUMB WAITER in excellent condition. The two circular tiers are of solid well-figured mahogany and are ribbon and beading carved around the edges, whilst the central column is also carved with stop-fluting and further beading around the top and bottom. It is supported on carved tripod cabriole legs with pointed pad feet and original 'barrel' castors. A pretty Chippendale period piece, ideal as an occasional table ~ next to a settee for example. c.1770
