Description

Outstanding and most unusual design Regency mahogany and ebony inlaid breakfront side cabinet. The whole piece is of the best quality. Ebony inlaid throughout. The end doors with original brass grills with recently re-done pleated silk panels behind. Inside there are two fully adjustable shelves with nicely moulded mahogany edges. The middle section with a large cupboard to the centre flanked by two smaller cupboards on either side. The central cupboard with one shelf. The smaller cupboards, the left hand one has shelves, the right hand one with three drawers (probably had 4 originally). Above the cupboards there are two long drawers, the bottom one a drawer, the upper one a dummy drawer. The top has a fold down desk part which is fitted inside like a lap desk. There is a super-structure to the back with turned uprights to the front, mahogany panel to the back and a full length shelf with gallery. The ends have the ebony stringing running round both on the top and bottom sections. The whole piece sits on its originally fixed plinth. The whole piece is a gorgeous colour and patination only achieved from years of waxing. One of the most unusual pieces of Regency carc...
