Description

This is a very large and interesting framed excerpt page from the 1890 table written by The Rev. Robert Logan. (Macniven and Wallace.) A very interesting family tree of the Monarchy, recently framed in a period frame, the main folder with the other pages is distressed but reasonably intact. It takes the line from the 9th century AD to the late 19th century. —The first tables are the Anglo-Saxon line, traced up to Cerdic, King of Wessex (519-534), reputed as eighth or tenth in descent from Woden, with the Scottish line up to Alpin (834), the Danish, Norman, Guelph, and other descents,—in fact, all the complicated descents which combine in the reigning house. There is a vast mass of facts here, exhibited with as much clearness as the subject admits. The price below is for the everything, the framed print, the folder cover and the other pages. The dimension of the framed print are 50.5 inches by 34.5 inches. The dimensions of the folder are 30 inches by 20 inches.
