Price

SoldItem Reference: SA354825*Date of manufacture: 1910

Description

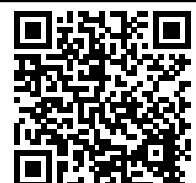

An elegant pair of brass candlesticks dating from around the first part of the 20thC. These would have been referred to as 'pricket sticks' because they have a spike at the top to hold the candle in place. They have a plain central column with a decorative piece in the centre and ornate brasswork under the candle cup and on the base. These were possibly French and could have been used in a religious place or home as they have a cross on the base and small crosses under the shaped candle cups. The candlesticks measure 56cm in length and 15cm across, and weigh nearly 1kg each. We have included postage and packing within the UK mainland only in our price, but will obtain quotes to deliver to other areas.
