Description

Albert Randall of BATH: a good quality mid/late 19th century mahogany WALL CLOCK of compact size. The case is of good quality mahogany of fine warm colour whilst the bezel is of cast brass and contains the slightly convex glass which appears to be original. The eight-day movement is chain-driven fusee with its painted dial of 10-inch diameter, and original blued steel hands. Perfect working order. * There is an entry for one Albert Randall in a Bath trade directory, but little else is known. Further research to be undertaken!
