Description

LISTED ARTIST BERNARD PAGE Born 1927 > Born in Hertfordshire, the progeny of an English Father and Swiss Mother who came from a family of Artists and Engravers. > Having served his time in the Royal Navy, he was trained at the St Martins Art College, moving thence to the Central Art College in London. Having worked as a Graphic designer for the "Vogue" magazine he took the leap and became a full time artist. > Whilst achieving success (his works are in collections throughout Europe and America), his later life was dogged by ill health and he died relatively young. > This is a beautifully painted large scale landscape oil painting on canvas laid on panel, depicting a winding river through a valley > There is a small punt on the river with a gentleman seen fishing in the calm waters. > The sky adds depth and perspective and the detail seen in the painted foliage of the trees is very much in the manner of the early 19th century period. > An accomplished artist whose distinct style has made him a desirable artist to collect in today's decorative market. This is one of his earlier examples. > His works have been sold in well respected galleries throughout the country and as he ...
