Description

Delightful little example of the classic straw back Orkney chair c.1930. Oak frame with carved detail to the arms, oat straw backrest and a loose woven seagrass seat. Excellent condition, original through. A true design classic, the Orkney chair with its distinctive straw back became an icon of the Arts and Crafts movement. A vernacular form produced on a commercial scale from 1870 in the workshop of David Kirkness in Kirkwall on Orkney, they were retailed by Liberty & Co. and could be found in the homes of Charles Rennie Mackintosh and Edward VII. Dimensions: width 21", depth 19", height 33".
