Description

Stunning Early Ormolu and Sevres Porcelain Boudoir Clock ~ Rollin A Paris ~ French - Circa 1860 ~ ~ Excellent condition, fully overhauled ~ A fine and early original antique French ormolu (fine gilded bronze) clock by Vincenti and retailed by Rollin of Paris. The clock is beautifully modelled with finely chased detail. It is mounted with an exquisite Sevres style porcelain panel, finely painted with flowers with a pompadour blue back ground. It is exquisitely detailed and of excellent quality, the original gilding is in stunning condition with hardly any wear and has a lovely bright and clean finish. The dial is enamel on copper with a blue hour ring and a separate black minute ring. The original hands are finely fretted gilt brass and the bezel is decorated with acanthus. The rear door is also glazed to allow the movement to be seen. The French movement is of high quality and has both the early Vincenti 'Silver medal' clockmaker's mark and also the retailer's mark of Rollin Paris on the backplate. It is the earlier version of Pendule de Paris movement with outside hammer return spring. The clock case unusually has the movement serial number stamped into it confirming...
