Description

A fine quality and most attractive French MANTLE CLOCK in full working order. The ormolu (gilt bronze) case is of particularly good equality, crisp and retaining all of its original 'fire' gilding. Surmounted by an urn, with four 'pineapple' finials, it is mounted with a superb porcelain panel to the front of hand-painted putti on a royal blue ground, with matching curved panels to either side featuring birds. The eight-day movement strikes hours and half-hours on a bell and is signed Howell of Paris, whilst the perfect enamel dial is similarly signed. This is a really good quality and decorative French clock.
