Description

A very good late 18th century George III period ivory TEA CADDY in excellent original condition. Of pretty small size, the ivory panels are separated by tortoiseshell divisions, the front panel with mother-of-pearl inlay around the silver escutcheon and silver shield-shaped cartouche. The lid, with its silver bow handle, opens to reveal the original velvet-lined inside; the matching inner lid, also with silver bow handle, and much of the original lead lining. A really lovely caddy.
