Description

Very unusual & stylish antique continental circular pot cupboard, which may be Biedermeier. I believe the wood is a kind of fruit wood, but I'm not 100% sure & I would date it to around the 1880's period. It has a mirrored top, with a single drawer below. That section has four curled supports & beneath that is a cylindrical cupboard with a white porcelain liner below the inside shelf. There is one more feature that we forgot to show in the images, which is a pull out slide that pulls out at the top of the base section, just above the cupboard. You can just make out the outline in the image with the cupboard open. This is a very useful piece of furniture which could serve many purposes & it's in lovely condition. Diameter - 16.5", 42 cm Height - 26.8", 68 cm
