Description

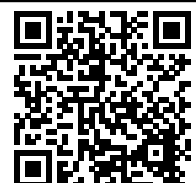

ALFRED VICKERS (R.A): a well composed and executed OIL PAINTING ON CANVAS which depicts a typically English landscape with cattle crossing a stream. Painted with the artist's usual bright style, it is signed (lower left) and indistinctly dated (old accreditation on the back says 1849 but on closer examination, 1839 looks more likely?). It measures: 25.5ins x 21ins including the frame. (64.5 x 53cms) * Alfred Vickers (1786-1868) was a self-taught landscape painter who exhibited 125 works at the Royal Academy and elsewhere. He often painted views with river scenes using a range of pale greens which was distinctive.
