Description

Very attractive & practicable antique three door wardrobe made by 'Maple & Co', dating from around the 1890-1910 period. It's a combination of burr, figured & solid walnut. The three shaped door panels are a strongly patterned burr walnut, with cross banding on the edges. The sides are figured walnut & it sits on carved ogee feet. There are two separate compartments inside. The right hand side consists of a top shelf, two pull out sliding trays & three drawers below. The other two doors open up to reveal a double compartment with a shelf on top & plenty of room for hanging clothes. It still has the original brass hooks inside. There are some drop down fittings to hold a bar for hangers, but the bar is missing. It's not a problem, because we will have another bar fitted before it goes out. A lot of antique wardrobes are too shallow to take hangers, but this one is extra deep, so there will be no problem there. There is also a full length mirror on the back of one of the doors. This wardrobe is superb quality throughout, which is what you would expect from a 'Maple & Co' piece. It separates into four sections for easier transportation. The top lifts off & there are two midd...
