Description

Large pair of late C19th Italian wooden 'faux marble' obelisks. Highly-decorative pair of Italian-made obelisks of impressive scale, painted to simulate much-prized Lapis lazuli stone. Mounted on 5 gilded spheres, the tapering obelisks stand upon plinth bases with simulated Rosso marble slips and bases. Gilt-wood mouldings and gilded edges to obelisks. Both the faux marble decoration and gilding have been skilfully finished and aged, to replicate a pair of extremely valuable and rare late C17th or early C18th Venetian obelisks. In excellent condition with only very minor chips to paint. Decorated all around, of free-standing form. H 25" Base 7"sq. Italy c. 1870
