Description

A fine quality pair of mahogany shaped and carved armchairs upholstered in an Irish linen. Dating to circa 1860-1880 this super pair of antique mahogany chairs stand extremely well and just ooze quality. Having shaped and carved arms with tub shaped buttoned backs and feather down cushions making these chairs very comfortable to relax in. The finely carved arms roll down to a beautifully carved front rail with central shell motif flanked by cabriole legs with shell carved knee and raised on scrolled acanthus leaf pad feet. The back legs are also cabriole with carved acanthus leaf feet again just showing the signs of a quality cabinet maker of the mid 19th Century. These antique chairs has been fully restored and with the original horsehair upholstery still intact recovered with a light grey Irish linen in the same manner as they were originally upholstered. A stunning pair of important chairs which will sit nicely in any home.
