Description

Edwardian walnut knee-hole chest Here we have this stunning walnut knee-hole. This walnut knee-hole is so versatile, and so very popular in the home. It can be used in a bedroom as a dressing table, in a drawing room or lounge as a useful item for storage and placing a lamp and picture frames upon. We have placed them in hall-ways as well as on landings every time they look stunning and also very useful. The knee-hole has a slide that pulls out from under the top with a long drawer above the knee-hole that is fitted a cupboard. To each side of the knee-hole are 3 graduated drawers. This walnut knee-hole has many decorative features. The top has the attractive indent to each front corner and a subtle inlaid oval herringbone cross-banding, as well as cross-banding around the cupboard and drawers. The walnut knee-hole stands on high bracket feet with concealed castors. 76cms wide (30ins) 46cms deep (18ins) 83cms high (32 1/2ins)
