Description

Early C19th Regency mahogany dining table in the manner of Gillows of Lancaster. Highly practical and adaptable drop-leaf centre dining table of 3 sections raised upon 12 finely-turned and shaped legs. The twin D-ends raised upon original brass socket castors. The drop-leaf centre section with double gate-action to each leaf which provides a stable platform when open to secure to the D-ends with the original brass sockets and forks. Fine quality manufacture throughout with 'cock-beaded' rule joints between all the elements to achieve an excellent fit when clipped together. The craftsmanship, design and grade of timber giving a strong attribution to the esteemed workshops of Gillows of Lancaster & London, although not signed. A good practical dining table with a completely flat top when fully extended. Could be used in a variety of forms to suit different occasions and functions. Adapting as 2 side tables and a drop-leaf supper table when not required in full form. Comfortable 10-seater dining table when fully-extended. The elegantly turned legs being inset to the frame to aid comfort of seating and the shallow frieze offering good leg-room. All original throughout...
