Description

Circa 1920-1940, this is a matching pair of wall lights with three rows of original glass drops held into position by a glass flowers - see Photo 2. On the top frame are a pair of winged cherubs, all in very good condition. We have photographed them hanging on coat hooks - there isn't a chrome piece sticking out at the top! Both have a brass support structure at the back for easy fixing to a wall, and to make them sturdy. The lights measure approximately 19cm in length including the height of the cherubs; 15cm without; and they are approximately 18cm across the back. They stand at approximately 11cm out from the wall. The lights have been rewired for the UK market and use one lightbulb. Delivery within the UK mainland only has been included in the price, and for delivery elsewhere, we are happy to supply quotes.
