Description

Early C19th Regency period mahogany console or hall table. Useful scale console table of practical proportions, raised on leaf-carved scroll-end supports with well-figured mahogany top. The design inspired by Greek classical antiquity, in the fashionable Grecian revival manner of this period from the drawings of the neo-classicists such as Thomas Hope and Charles Heathcote-Tatham. The bold scrolled supports with 'stiff-leaf' carving to the front roll and classical leaf carving to the rear of the volute. Plain frieze with no drawer, the mahogany top raised above a mould, alluding to a marble top from antiquity. Standing on moulded plinth bases, with plain uprights to the rear. Excellent colour and condition, with no splits or damage. Has been cleaned and waxed in our workshops, ready to use. W 51" D 23" H 38" England c.1820
