Description

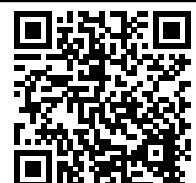

Circa 1920-1940 this is a taller than average, brass, six sided hall lantern we have had rewired to UK specifications. It measures 54cm in length, making it longer than most of this design, and at the widest point it is 24cm. The wall fixing holding the lantern is 11cm from the wall. We have a similar one for sale with slightly different proportions, see under our section of Selling Antiques - our item no. 1314. The light is in good condition, whilst maintaining the rustic look. Each pane of glass has a sunburst/flower etched in the middle, and the glass has the very slightest tinge of green which barely shows in real life, but is highlighted by the camera flash. It takes a single, standard bayonet lightbulb, and a panel opens for easy access to the light source. Postage and package within the UK mainland has been included in the price, but for outside areas, or delivery abroad, we will be happy to supply a quote.
