SoldItem Reference: SA399911*Date of manufacture: 1750

Description

A handsome antique George III period inlaid mahogany demi lune card table dating from circa 1780. The wonderfully figured mahogany top with satinwood banding and paterae shelley inlay. The channelled tapering legs with satinwood stringing, the back two legs fold out to support the fold over top. Old green baize to top. Lovely colour and deep patina. Could be used as a hall or console table, or the baize could easily be replaced and used as a card table. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: An old repair to the back leg (see photo). Small section of inlay missing to back leg. Small split in veneer to front. Other wear and marks commensurate with age. Because the back legs fold out, the table is slightly unsteady and is best placed against a wall. Dimensions: Width: 38.5 inches Depth Closed: 18 inches Depth Open: 35.5 inches Height: 30 inches
