Description

This stunning antique Swedish cabinet looks just as good open or closed. I think it was designed to be used as a secretaire, because when the front flap is dropped down it could be used for writing on. This piece is smothered in wonderful marquetry of many exotic woods, plus well cast gilt mounts, escutcheons & feet. The marble top has a lovely colour & just lifts off. There is a single drawer at the top & three drawers below the flap. The flap pulls down to reveal a spectacular interior of small drawers & one cupboard. This piece has so many amazing features that I couldn't possibly describe them all, so please enlarge all the images to see for yourselves. The style is very much neoclassical & I would date it to around the 1920-30's period. Width - 34", 87 cm Depth - 17", 43 cm Height - 46.5", 118 cm
