Description

Country House Pine Ice Box or Refrigerator from around 1890 A superb piece of Social History, this piece would only be found in the most wealthiest of Country Houses everyone else had to wait for the availability of electricity. The interior is zinc lined and fully plumbed to make best use of the ice to chill the contents, the top section opened up and the cupboard is shelved. This nice-looking piece has been cleaned back to the natural wood and brass fittings, it is in excellent working order no electricity required. The Ice Box is 33" high, 20" wide and 16" deep.
