Description

This is a most impressive and extraordinary heavy pocket watch made by the world renowned American maker Hamilton. It has a heavy solid 14ct tri colour gold box hinge case depicting a stag and foliage and on the reverse more flowers and foliage which is bright and crisp. The attention to detail is quite staggering. Measuring 53mm wide and 85mm long this is one of the largest pocket watches we have ever come across. The chain is also solid 14k gold and is original to the watch, the initials inscribed on both are the same. The watch itself weighs 130g and the chain 28g. The white enamel dial is totally original and unblemished with no hairlines, cracks or chips. It has the serial number 247344 which is a size 18s 17 jewel movement, the run date was 12th September 1907 in Lancaster Pennsylvania with a run quantity of 1000. The movement has been professionally serviced and the case and chain cleaned and polished so it looks absolutely stunning. If being a little critical there is an old repair next to the box hinge which is photographed but this in no way detracts from the look of the watch at all. Overall this is an incredible pocket watch certainly the best example...
