Description

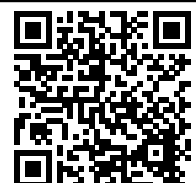

George III Yew and Elm stick back Windsor armchair on turned supports and united by a crinoline stretcher. This chair is in superb solid condition, has great colour and patina. The seat width is tight for an average man but ideal for a woman. The crinoline stretcher tends to indicate this was made in the first quarter of the 19th century in Nottinghamshire or Lincolnshire, there is evidence of long dead woodworm. Size: Height - 101 cms (39.5") Max width - 51 cms (20") Max depth - 50 cms (19.5") Seat height - 42 cms (16.5")
