Description

Circa 1900-1920 a brass Art Nouveau gas light with the original vaseline glass lampshades. The light was converted to electricity by a professional electrician and the gas taps on either side fixed into position to protect the electric cable. It will require an up to date PAT test before use. It measures 90cm in height up to the hook at the top of the pole, and at the widest part it is 60cm. The height of the brass pole could be adjusted by an electrician. The glass shades are an opaque cream/yellow at the top and just a hint of colour to the bottom. The shades are approximately 14cm in length and 10cm wide at the open end. Postage and package for the UK mainland is included in the price and for remote areas or abroad please contact us for a delivery quote.
