Description

A superb pair of large antique steam locomotive water gauges / sight glasses, dating from the early 20th Century, in totally original condition, mounted on shaped old pine backboards for display. These would make a fantastic pair of industrial style wall lights. Condition as original with all wear and tear associated with a working locomotive. Some minor glass chips and a few of the screws and nuts don't match. The pine backboards with some old worm. 66cm high not including the backboards.
