Description

Pleasant design 18th century George III solid mahogany tray. The tray has been made from good timbers and is a sort of octagonal shape with canted corners. The tray has a gallery all round with nice shape cut out handles on the four longer sides. There are no splits to the base and the tray is a lovely colour with original patination. The tray is very slightly warped but that is being super critical. SIZE; 24" long by 17" wide by 2" high CIRCA; 1780
