Description

A pretty mid/late 19th century engraved French CARRIAGE CLOCK probably by Joseph Soldano and retailed by Parkinson & Frodsham. The case is of Corniche design, prettily hand-engraved all over. The 8-day movement retains its original lever escapement striking hours and half-hours on a gong, repeating hours at will. The good enamel dial is perfect and the blued steel hands are original. Perfect working order. Joseph Soldano made lovely carriage clocks mainly in the third quarter of the 19th century. Uniquely, he numbered his platforms; this clock is numbered (2244) to both the platform and movement.
